Sir,

I have the honor to submit my fifth report on the administration of the Mysore Co-operative Societies Regulation III of 1905, for the official year ended 30th June 1910.

2. I continued to hold the office of Registrar through-out the year under report, during which I toured for 94 days in the Districts of Bangalore, Mysore, Tumkur and Kolar. In November 1909, I attended the Conference of Registrars of Co-operative Credit Societies held at Calcutta. In the month of February last, I spent a week at Madras and acquainted myself with the working of the Madras Central Bank with the kind permission of its Secretary Sir. V. Desikachary. I also availed myself of my stay at Madras to visit the Triplicane Urban Coopera-tive Stores and to study its methods of working. With the kind permission of Dewan Bahadur Mr.R.Ramachandra Rao, Submits in duplicate the fifth report on the administration of the Mysore Co-operative societies Regulation III of 1905 for the official year ended 30th june 1910.

Registrar of Co-operative Credit Societies, Madras, I also spent some days in studying the working of his office. In the month of March 1910, I went to Salem and was present at the Co-operative Conference got up by the Salem District Urban Bank and presided over by the Honorable Mr. Justice V. Krishnaswamy Iyer, Judge of the Madras High Court.

3. The acute distress of the past year, which at one time seriously threatened to throw back the movement, having fortunately proved but temporary, the societies resumed their normal working, and, during the year under report, more than made up the deficiency by rapid strides. Both in the organization of new societies and the development of the old ones in the way of attracting larger working capital and making the same available for improvement of agriculture and relieving members from overswelling outside-indebtedness, the work of the societies has been one of steady progress. The year opened with 45 societies, consisting of 1 Central, 16 Urban and 28 Rural societies. During the year 2 Urban and 24 Rural societies were organized. One Rural Society, namely, Sri Krishnaraja Mutual Helping Society, Ltd., at Mandya, which had not shown any vitality since it was started, was wound up leaving ~~societies consisting of~~ societies consisting of 1 Central 18 Urban and 51 Rural societies at the close of the year. The subjoined comparative table shows the distribution of societies over the different Districts of the State and the development of the movement in each District:-

	1905-06.	1906-07.	1907-08.	1908-09.	1909-10
1.Bangalore	2.	4.	4.	5.	11.
2.Mysore	1.	5.	12.	16.	20.
3.Tumkur	-	4.	4.	9.	20.
4.Kolar	-	-	1.	2.	3.
5.Hassan	1.	1.	1.	2.	3.
6.Kadur	1.	1.	2.	3.	5.
7.Shimoga	-	-	1.	2.	2.
8.Chitaldroog.	-	-	2.	6.	6.
Total.	5.	15.	27.	45.	70.

4. It is too early at present to draw any very definite inferences from the above figures but it seems to me that there is enough of data to venture a confirmation of the experience in other parts of India, that the Co-operative Movement follows in the wake of education and that it has first to be clearly understood by the educated few before it can permeate to the masses below. I have been constantly instructing the Honorary Organizers and Inspectors that form the executive staff of the department, that for some time to come they may restrict the work of organization to tracts where at least an elementary school exists. The most noticeable feature in the work of organization during the year is the formation of 8 societies on the unlimited liability basis and the inception of a Building Society at Bangalore with no share capital but with a reserve liability of Rs.250/- attach-ed to each member. The frame work of the unlimited societies is mainly based on the Raiffeisen model; but as the scope of the co-operative movement has yet to be fully understood by our villa-gers and as a means of compulsory saving a slight modification has been introduced in the constitution of some societies by making share-holding compulsory with very restricted profits, without prejudice, however, to the unlimited liability of the members, so far as the borrowings of the society are concerned. At present the borrowings of these societies are confined to the Central Bank, which charges interest at 7½ per cent per annum. The interest charged by the rural societies on loans to members ranges from 9 to 12 per cent per annum, according to local con-ditions. With the above modifications in the constitution of un-limited liability societies and with the internal safe-guards in their actual working I am hopeful that the fear of our village folk for this form of liability will soon wear off. Next, as re-gards the Building Society, it was to meet a special want which has arisen in our growing towns in these days of new sanitary ideas that a Building Society at Bangalore was started. From an investigation of the statistics, collected from the registers in the Bangalore Sub Registrar's office, the total mortgage-indebt-

indebtedness on the houses in all the extensions of the Bangalore City, from 1893-94 when the first extension viz., Chamarajapet, was opened, up to the end of 1907-08 was found to be nearly ten lakhs of rupees of which a little more than 6 lakhs had been advanced by Government without interest.The remaining 4 lakhs came from private lenders and though it is not possible to say accurately how much of this debt has been discharged, there is no doubt, from what the figures relating to hypothecation of houses in recent years indicate, that a large portion of it is still outstanding. A large number of houses in the extensions remains unfinished or without the needed improvements up to date. In several cases the building of a house, it is believed, has proved disastrous, hopelessly involving the owner in debt. For affording relief and help in such cases as well as to enable people to build good houses or improve them, without fear of ultimately loosing them, that a Building Society was organized and the work done by the Society so far is encouraging. In European countries a large number of such societies exists and have been the chief agencies by which members have acquired good houses in the course of some years and I do not see, why in course of time, blocks of houses, built with the help of funds advanced by Co-operative Building Societies should not come into existence in all the congested places, at present solely looking to Government for help, affording substantial proof of the beneficial results of the Co-operative Movement as a whole. I may add that at the last Conference of the Registrars of Co-operative Credit Societies held at Calcutta in November 1909, I assured myself that a Building Society on the lines of the one started a t Bangalore was a co-operative society to which the provisions of the Co-operative Act applied.

5. The following statement shews the general progress in the working of all the societies under different heads, as compared with that of the previous year:-

	No. of Societies.	No. of Members.	Working Capital.	Total Disbursements.	Reserve Fund.
1905-06.	5	362.	Rs.14,243.	Rs.10,581.
1906-07.	15.	1,191.	Rs.28,885.	Rs.78,216.	Rs.167
1907-08.	27,	2,521.	Rs.64,126.	Rs.2,43,477.	Rs.924
1908-09.	45,	4,551.	Rs.1,35,499.	Rs.4,81,768.	Rs.2,340
1909-10.	70.	6,301 ~~6,378~~.	Rs.2,16,261.	Rs.6,68,261.	Rs.5,831

6. All the 70 societies are now in different stages of growth. Those that came into existence in the beginning have now gathered sufficient strength and vitality. I am glad to report that the first society registered under the Co-operative Regulation, the Bangalore City Co-operative Society is still the first in point of progress. The paid-up share capital at the close of the year was Rs.20,325 while the deposits attracted during the year amounted to Rs.22,368. Cash loans amounting to Rs.71,098 were issued and stock of the value of Rs.20,[illegible] was sold. The Society introduced certain additional features also into the system of its working. The issue of cheque books to depositors has proved a great convenience and it has encouraged the members to deposit their earnings however small, in the Society as thereby they can easily operate on such deposits at call by means of cheques. The inception of the " Provident Fund Scheme" by which every member who takes a bond contracts to pay at the rate of Re. 1/- a month on each bond for seven years at the end of which he becomes eligible to receive Rs.100/- from the Society, is a further development of the Society's business on co-operative lines. The members have taken very kindly to the scheme and at present the receipts of the Society under this head amounts to about Rs.500/- a month. Mr. P. Subba Rao continued to be the Honorary Secretary of this Society during the year and as a mark of recognition of his excellent services to the Society an invitation was issued to him to the palace during H. H. the Maharaja's marriage in June last. A small reading room and library is also attached to the Society for the benefit of the members.

7. The Bangalore City Co-operative Bank showed equally good progress with its paid-up capital of Rs.28,430/- and deposits of Rs.15,024/- which it attracted during the year. It is developing much on its old lines and though the Directors have not so far been taking kindly to my advice to strengthen the reserve fund and do away with the direction charges in view of making the Bank a true co-operative institution, I am hopeful that the members of the Bank will ere long bring about this desirable change.

8. The Basavangudi and Malleswarum Societies which take their names from the two important extensions of Bangalore City are mainly distributive stores with small cash departments attached to them. The former continued its activity in its original area and with my permission extended its operations to the fast developing Sankara Mutt Extension adjoining it. The latter Society which is still in its infancy is showing signs of development.

9. The Bangalore City Building Co-operative Society the objects of which have been explained in a previous paragraph commenced its work in the middle of March 1910 and issued 9 loans of the aggregate value of Rs.4,350/- during the year and recovered Rs.203/- on account of principal during the same period.

10. Out of the remaining five societies outside the Bangalore City those at Kengeri and Hudi have just commenced work and those at Yelahanka and Gottagere have shown fairly good progress. To the latter Society I have recently granted a loan of Rs.250/- from State Funds to augment its working capital. In the case of the village societies in the Bangalore Taluk, Mr. A. Hayes, Amildar has been greatly helping them in various ways and my thanks are due to him. The Society at Chennapatna Chennapatna which is mainly an industrial society has paid back the deposit of Rs.100/- which I gave it last year from the Funds that His Highness has so magnanimously placed at my dis-posal. The Society found sales for lacquered articles of the value of Rs.1,149-10-4 and during the year under report the cash branch was seperated from the factory branch to avoid confusion in the accounts.

11.TUMKUR DISTRICT.

The number of societies in this District rose from 9 to 20, though some of the societies started at the close of the year had not yet commenced to work. The Tumkur Central Co-operative Society continued to do business in banking and its paid-up shares amounted at the close of the year to Rs.11,071. Mr. C. D. Ramaswamiah its first Secretary ceased to guide it, his place being taken by Mr. R. Shama Rao, retired Amildar. Closely following this Society in the path of pro-gress is the Society at Sira whose share capital rose during the year from Rs.5,095/- to Rs.8,168/-. The Society at Turve-kere borrowed during the year Rs.1,500/- from the Central Bank. The new societies at Tiptur and Koratagere are in the management of intelligent men and have already shown good progress both in the number of members and in the volume of business done. At Pavagada the Amildar Mr. S. Reuben is greatly assisting the Society. The grain Bank at Kotta has now a reserve grain of 19 pallas and 23 seers.

12. MYSORE DISTRICT.

In the District of Mysore there are now 20 societies of which five are new. Two of the latter did not commence work before the close of the year. Of the first society in the Dis-trict Viz., the Mysore Co-operative Society, as before, it may be said that its progress continued satisfactory. It has not been as regular in its meetings as could be wished, and it is hoped that it will show improvement next year. The productive Weaver Society at at Melkote and the Lakshmisahaya Nidhi at Mysore did commendably well. The Weaver Society at Saligrama though in a moribund condition is still persevering in its work with the help of advances made by one of its members. I fear, however, that this Society has no future. The Society at T. Narsipur, which began under good auspices, and hoped to do a good deal for the silk reeling industry of Mysore, had had to close business in that department by reason of its inability to produce silk of the quality in demand in the outside markets. The working has resulted in a loss but the Society is now trying other means of making it good. The Mysore Krishi Silpabhi Vardhaka Samaja placed its working on sounder lines. A fresh Committee of Management was elected in February 1910 with Mr.M.Kantaraj Urs as President, and with different secretaries for the agricultural and the industrial branches of the Association. The Societies at Kadakola and Hinkal (in the Mysore Taluk) and at Kuderu (in the Chamarajanagar Taluk) did fairly good work.

13. Of the remaining Districts, Kolar and Hassan have three societies each, Shimoga two, and Kadur and Chitaldroog five each. The Society in the town of Kolar is in intelligent hands and promises well. In the Hassan District the societies at Hassan and Hole Narsipur did not shew any marked vitality. The societies in the Districts of Shimoga and Kadur need no remark. The Zahir-Ul-Islam Weaver Co-operative Society at Molakalmuru in the Chitaldroog District, encountered some trouble with one of its Hindu members, between whom and the Secretary of the Society there was some ill-will. The Inspector of Co-operative Societies visited the place and after overhauling the affairs of the Society brought about peace between the members. The Rural Society at Molakalmuru, progressed steadily under the guidance of Mr. Venkata Rao, and other members of the Committee.

14. Of the remaining societies in the Chitaldroog District the Society at Harihar is ceasing to work on co-operative lines. The Society deals mainly with the weavers of the place, who are not members, in yarn and other raw materials, and there is a heavy outstanding balance against them. Unless the balances are recovered and the working method is improved, the registration of the society will have to be cancelled.

15. MEMBERS. The year under report shows an increase in the total number of members from 4,551 in the beginning to 6,301 at the close, the admissions and the cessations being 2,169 and ~~340~~ 338 respectively. With regard to the members, if there is any one idea more prominent than the rest, it is that the stability of a society is proportionate to the moral worth of its members. I am glad to note that the managing bodies of societies have learnt to respect this idea, so much so, that in the Bangalore City Co-operative Society and a few other societies, instances have occurred in which defaulters have pressed payment of their dues, reformed and subsequently turned out correct members, under a feeling that removal from membership of the society was a stain on their character, not to be easily wiped off.

16. CAPITAL.

As usual the sources of capital were shares, deposits and borrowings. The Bangalore Central Co-operative Bank, which on account of the drought which prevailed last year was unable to commence operations, began, in the latter half of the year under report, to issue loans. With this Bank to finance rural societies, it has become easier to sanction the formation of such societies more largely than hitherto. The total share capital collected in all the societies increased during the year from Rs.1,06,131 to Rs.1,58,698 and the working capital, including deposits and borrowings from Rs.1,35,499 to Rs.2,16,266.

17. DEPOSITS.

There was an improvement in the deposits attracted in all the societies. The deposits received during the year amounted to Rs.69,131 against Rs.34,220 of last year, excluding the Provident Provident Fund collection of Rs.1,008, in the Bangalore City Co-operative Society, deposits to the extent of Rs.47,114 were returned, leaving an outstanding balance of Rs.40,302 at the close of the year, including the opening balance. The older societies are advancing in the confidence of their members and are attracting fairly large deposits. Naturally the same cannot be said of rural societies where the Managing Bodies themselves stand in need of constant instruction and supervision. The growth of confidence in such societies is slow, but it is remarkable that when once the raiyat is assured that the society established in his village ensures safety for his money and that it uses it for lending to men, who are known to him, without the money going out of the village, he readily comes forward with his savings to deposit them in the society.

18. The sub-joined table gives the borrowings of the societies from the different sources indicated:-

Name of source.	Name of the borrowing society.	Amount advanced.	Repayments.	Balance.	Due date.
H.H.the Maharaja's Fund.	1. Kotta Grain Bank.	Rs.150/-	-	Rs.150/-	21st Aug. 09 (Renewed)
	2. Hinkal Nanneswara Sahaya Sangha.	Rs.500/-	-	Rs.500/-	19th Nov. 09 (Renewed up to 19th Nov. 1910)
2.Central Bank.	1. Turvekere Co-operative society.	Rs.1,500/-	-	Rs.1,500/-	June 1911
	2. Bangalore City Building Society.	Rs.5,000.	-	Rs.5,000.	1913 3000 - Jan. 2000 - June 1912
3.Government. (State Fund)	1. Hebbur Co-operative Society.	Rs.250.	-	Rs.250.	Nov. 1910
	2. Molakalmuru Krishi-Kara Sahaya Sangha.	Rs.200.	Rs.133-5-4	Rs.66-10-8	May 1911.
	3. Halgonahalli Co-operative Society.	Rs.200.		Rs.200.	Nov. 1910.

It is seen from the above that only 7 societies have borrowed till now and the borrowed debt of the societies at the close of t h e year formed a low percentage of .03 to the capital formed of shares and deposits, in the aggregate, as compared with the percentage of the whole of India which is .14. It may, however, be stated that for want of a central place to borrow, the amount under this head appears so low. The societies are clamorous for loans and hereafter with the Central Bank working, larger figures may be expected to appear under this head. The societies as a whole, have not yet tapped the local capital to the extent they ought to; it takes time for them to do it, and when Unions have been formed, I think, a systematic organized means will have come into existence for such tapping.

19. LOANS TO MEMBERS.

The amount of loans advanced during the year by all the societies to their members was Rs.3,53,781 as against Rs.~~1,88,997~~ 2,28,027 of the year previous. The outstandings at the end of the year amounted to Rs.1,38,565, the repayments being Rs.2,94,325 as against Rs.~~1,48,408~~ 1,82,310 of the previous year. The societies on the whole are keeping up their reputation for minimum number of defaults. The purposes for which the loans are advanced in the societies are chiefly agricultural in the rural parts, such as purchase of seed, manure or cattle or redeeming land from prior encumbrances, or payment of kandayam; in weaver societies, for the purchase of raw material or industrial appliances; and in the purely urban societies of Bangalore and Mysore, for the purchase of food stuffs or household requirements. The information to hand on this point is however meagre, though efforts are being made year after year to collect accurate information on the purposes of every loan, as it is very important to do so from a co-operative point of view. The occasions on which rural members borrowed for what are called specifically non-productive purposes such as marriage and other ceremonies seem few and far between. As regards security, most of the loans continued to be secured yet on the paid up share value, and where this does not cover the loan applied for a joint surety is demanded. In rural areas the immovable property of the borrowing member is freely offered as security but the character of the borrower is gradually entering into consideration in the disposal of the loan applications,- a very hopeful sign for the spread and stability of co-operation, whose mission is to secure reasonably cheap and facile credit for all really useful purposes. The following table indicates the loans issued on different securities:

Rs.	1,11,~~864~~914-11-5	Secured on	share value.
"	21,845- 2-3	Do	joint and several responsibility of the borrower and surety.
"	23,493- 0-0	Do	immovable property.
"	8,344-11-3	Do	movable property.
"	86,568- 1-7	Do	on the simple bond of the borrower.

20. RATES OF INTEREST.

It is too early to make systematic enquiries as to the effect of co-operative credit on the money lender. It may however, be safely said that wherever co-operative societies have taken firm root, the hands of the money lender have invariably been crippled. He has lost certainly in the clientele and has in certain places climbed down. This is especially so in the cities of Bangalore, Mysore and Tumkur. In other places too, where the "Labbe" has been long having his unconscionable trade in charging one pie per rupee per day or more in proportion to the exigencies of the borrower, Co-operative societies have been of use in driving the "Labbe" out of the field. A recent instance of this occurred at Koratagere. The "Labbe" and his kind are still having it in their own way in some of their interior places where the movement has not made its appearance. The movement with us on the whole augurs well for the raiyat, as he has already learnt to petition to the Registrar against the usurious rates locally obtaining and against the time-honored system of borrowing on " Phalla Suttige ", according to which system the raiyat borrows for short periods of three or four months on the condition of repaying the i n-

terest

interest in kind at one "Ibbala" (ಇಬ್ಬಳ) ie 4½ Kolagas for every rupee advanced. The system of "Phatta Guttige" often results in the borrower giving away all his produce to the lender without being able to retain anything for his own use; and the co-operative societies in rural parts have commenced to check this pernicious system. The rates of interest generally charged by societies on loans to members have continued to range from 9 to 12½ per cent, the rates of the Central Bank excepted. The latter vary from 6 to 7½ per cent in case of loans to societies and from 8 to 9 per cent in the case of loans to members.

21. Custody of Funds.

Public accounts have been opened in the Postal Savings Banks by 9 societies, in the names of the secretaries or treasurers in whose custody the daily balances have remained. The Managing Committees or the Punchayats as the case may be have from time to time scrutinized the balances. The reserve funds are at present deposited in the Savings Banks (Postal or Government) as fixed deposits. The daily balances of each society have not been unnecessarily excessive. The secretaries know full well that it is bad economy to have money on hand lying idle.

22. RECEIPTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

The total transactions from all the societies shew a marked progress over those of the previous year. The receipts and the disbursements during the year were Rs.6,92,926 and Rs.6,68,261 respectively against Rs.4,88,047 and Rs.4,81,768 of last year. The total volume of business thus shows an increase in receipts of Rs.2,04,879 and in disbursements of Rs.1,86,493 over those of the year previous, the increase being most noticeable in the older societies. The subjoined table shews the volume of business done by the distributive and productive societies.

23. PROFIT AND LOSS.

The year's transactions resulted in a net profit of Rs.10,874 to the societies. Here and there a desire to distribute large dividends on shares still lingers, but on the whole the societies are better educated on the point this year than they were in the past. The necessity for a limit on the distribution to members of profits is more generally recognised and the societies are advised to add a larger portion of the profits to the reserve fund.

24.RESERVE FUND.

The total amount accumulated under the reserve is from the beginning Rs.5,831-1-1 made up as follows:-

1905-06.	Rs.	131-10- 8
1906-07.	"	160- 5-11
1907-08.	"	924-15- 6
1908-09.	"	2,340-10-10
1909-10.	"	5,831- 1- 1

The Society that has built up the largest reserve is the Mysore Co-operative Society the second and third places being taken up by the Bangalore City Co-operative Society and and the Melkote Weaver Co-operative Society respectively with Rs.1,652, 1,200 and 605-12-0 respectively. The object of the fund is now fully understood. In some rural places the raiyats seemed to entertain the notion that the benign Government -- which was doing them so much for their good was not without an ulterior selfish motive, and that the reserve fund which its officers were advising to accumulate was finally to go to Government. Every opportunity has been availed of to disabuse them of this wrong notion and they have been assured that every pie of the reserve is their own, set apart however to give stability to the society to which it belongs.

25. AUDIT AND INSPECTION.

27 societies were inspected during the year. The work being more than what one Inspector and myself could manage, I had to indent upon the help of the two Honorary Organizers, Messrs. C. D. Ramaswamiah and T. Venkataramiah to whom I am deeply indebted for the ready manner in which they co-operated. From the beginning of the present official year, the Government have been pleased to strengthen my hands by the appointment of a Deputy Amildar, an additional Inpector and a clerk, for which I am highly thankful. As I have more than once brought to the notice of the Government, unless the Registrar's inspecting establishment is increased from time to time as the number of societies and the volume of business increase, the movement now admitted on all hands to be so beneficial to the rural population as well as to handicrafts men and men of moderate means, must come to a stop. The societies will in course of time be able to pay for their own audit and inspection, but till that time comes I do not think that the Government can hold back, unless it means to allow the movement to take its own course.

26. HONORARY ORGANIZERS.

To the ranks of these zealous and devoted workers of whom, after Mr. M.S.Narayana Rao, resigned, Mr.C.D.Ramaswamiah

Mr. C. D. Ramaswamiah alone remained, the names of Mr.T.Venkata ramaiah, retired Amildar, and Mr. Badami Krishna Rao, retired Assistant Commissioner, were added during the year. I regret that Mr. C. D. Ramaswamiah to whom we owe so many as twenty societies in the Tumkur District, has had to resign recently in consequence of ill-health. The other co-worker I am proud to associate myself with is Mr. T. Venkataramaiya, retired Amildar, who is working at present in the Bangalore District. Mr. Badami Krishna Rao's appointment was made in the latter part of the year under report and he has already begun to show good work.

27.COMMITTEE AND GENERAL MEETINGS.

There were 77 general and 377 committee meetings during the year under report. The committee meetings were on the whole regular, but not so the general. In the case of all societies I am insisting that they should hold their general meetings regularly as per bye-laws.

28.ACTS, RULES, AND REGULATIONS.

As mentioned in my last year's report the modifications needed in the Co-operative Regulation III of 1905 have to wait till the Government of India Act is amended, which it is expected, will be done when the Government of India next returns to Calcutta.

29. During the year under report there was a departmental compilation of a Co-operative Manual in Kannada by Mr. E. Rama Rao, Special Deputy Amildar, which is still in print.

30.ATTITUDE OF THE PUBLIC, DIFFICULTIES,Etc.

Co-operative societies in general have attracted a great deal of notice both in the English papers largely circulating in the State and also in the vernacular press of the country. In our District towns the Government officials are are the first to join the movement and in the large cities of Bangalore and Mysore there are very few officials who are not members of one society or another. The movement is gradually becoming more and more known in the interior and several people have come to me from distant villages in remote Taluks to enquire if co-operative societies can be --- given to them. I have been chary of granting societies i n places where the general intelligence of the people is low or the local conditions of the people places do not promise success. Last year some of the pending applications could not be attended to for want of sufficient establishment, but this year we are better situated and the applications are receiving prompt attention. While the educated people are appreciating the manifold benefits of the scheme, the Sahukars in the towns and the smaller money lenders in villages assume a somewhat hostile attitude to the movement and their opposition, though at present neither organized nor direct, may, I think, be expected to grow in intensity in future years, and we have to prepare ourselves to combat it efficaciously. The raiyats in whatever part of the Province, and whether they fully understand the scope of the movement or not, wish to have societies for themselves for the single purpose of saving themselves from usury, if for nothing else. I have been explaining to all people that the object of a co-operative society is neither the abolition of the sowcar of higher principles who may be called a banker in its best sense, nor the provision of cheap credit to a bankrupt —— raiyat. The movement being a purely economic one, there is place in it both for the wealthy sowcar and for the ~~poorest~~ honest humble raiyat. I am glad to note that during the year under report our city societies have enlisted several sowcars and merchants among their members. Before closing this section of my report I wish to mention yet another kind of difficulty which presents itself constantly in my work. There are a large class of people who lay claim to education, that start with the exaggerated notion that a cop-operative society is

is a panacea for all social evils. When the results of the working of our societies fall short of their explanations they feel disappointed and cry aloud that co-operative societies are no good to the country. While the main difficulty in rural tracts is the choice of a fit place with sufficient number of intelligent men to work a society, in the case of the societies in towns my attention is taken up in seeing that their working does not slide into joint stock or speculative methods. Time alone can set right these wrong ideas, but signs however are not wanting which show that the movement has passed out of this stage of unreasonable expectations, hasty generalizations and consequent disappointments into one of sober appreciation of its scope and methods.

31. In conclusion, it now only remains for me to thank all the gentlemen mentioned in my previous reports, for the continued interest they have evinced in popularizing the credit societies. In the year under report, Messrs. H.Ramaiah, Pensioned Assistant Secretary to Government, T. Lakshminarasimha Rao, B. A.; B. L. Assistant Secretary to Government and C. Rama Rao retired Assistant Commissioner, came forward with their help and I am specially thankful to them as to all the others, whose help has sustained me in my work—a work the importance of which has yet to be realized by the general public and consequently has to be done under circumstances which at times cause despair in the minds of those, whose good fortune or ill-fortune it is to be engaged in that work.

32. As usual, my office establishment did good work and the gradation in their pay recently sanctioned by Government should go far to sustain them in keeping up their good name for the future also.

I have the honor to be,

M. SHAMA RAO, ESQ., M.A.,
Registrar of Co-operative Societies in Mysore.

To

C. S. BALASUNDARAM IYER, ESQ., B.A.,
Officiating Secretary to the Government of H. H. the Maharaja of Mysore, General and Revenue Departments.

Sir,

I have the honor to submit my fifth Report on the administration of the Mysore Co-operative Societies Regulation, III of 1905, for the official year ended 30th June 1910.

2. I continued to hold the office of Registrar throughout the year under report, during which I toured for 94 days in the districts of Bangalore, Mysore, Tumkur and Kolar. In November 1909, I attended the Conference of Registrars of Co-operative Credit Societies held at Calcutta. In the month of February last, I spent a week at Madras and acquainted myself with the working of the Madras Central Bank with the kind permission of its Secretary Sir V. Desikachary. I also availed myself of my stay at Madras to visit the Triplicane Urban Co-operative Stores and to study its methods of working. With the kind permission of Dewan Bahadur Mr. R. Ramachandra Rao, Registrar of Co-operative Credit Societies, Madras, I also spent some days in studying the working of his office. In the month of March 1910, I went to Salem and was present at the Co-operative Conference got up by the Salem District Urban Bank and presided over by the Honorable Mr. Justice V. Krishnaswamy Iyer, Judge of the Madras High Court.

3. The acute distress of the past year, which at one time seriously threatened to throw back the movement, having fortunately proved but temporary, the societies resumed their normal working, and during the year under report more than made up the deficiency by rapid strides. Both in the organization of new societies and the development of the old ones in the way of attracting larger working capital and making the same available for improvement of agriculture and relieving members from overswelling outside-indebtedness, the work of the societies has been one of steady progress. The year opened with 45 societies, consisting of 1 Central, 16 Urban and 28 rural societies. During the year 2 urban and 24 rural societies were organized. One rural society, namely, Sri Krishnaraja Mutual Helping Society, Limited, at Mandya, which had not shown any vitality since it was started, was wound up, leaving 70 societies consisting of 1 central, 18 urban and 51 rural societies at the close of the year. The subjoined comparative table shows the distribution of societies over the different districts of the State and the development of the movement in each district:—

	1905-06	1906-07	1907-08	1908-09	1909-10
1. Bangalore	2	4	4	5	11
2. Mysore	1	5	12	16	20
3. Tumkur	...	4	4	9	20
4. Kolar	...	...	1	2	3
5. Hassan	1	1	1	2	3
6. Kadur	1	1	2	3	5
7. Shimoga	...	...	1	2	2
8. Chitaldrug	...	...	2	6	6
Total ...	5	15	27	45	70

4. It is too early at present to draw any very definite inferences from the above figures but it seems to me that there is enough of data to venture a confirmation of the experience in other parts of India, that the Co-operative movement follows in the wake of education and that it has first to be clearly understood by the educated few before it can permeate to the masses below. I have been constantly instructing the Honorary Organizers and Inspectors that form the executive staff of the department, that for some time to come they may restrict the work of organization to tracts where at least an elementary school exists. The most noticeable feature in the work of organization during the year is the formation of eight societies on the unlimited liability basis and the inception of a Building Society at Bangalore with no share capital but with a reserve liability of Rs. 250 attached to each member. The frame work of the unlimited societies is mainly based on the Raiffeisen model; but as the scope of the Co-operative movement has yet to be fully understood by our villagers, and as a means of compulsory saving, a slight modification has been introduced in the constitution of some societies by making share-holding compulsory with very restricted profits, without prejudice, however, to the unlimited liability of the members, so far as the borrowings of the society are concerned. At present the borrowings of these societies are confined to the Central Bank, which charges interest at 7½ per cent per annum. The interest charged by the rural societies on loans to members ranges from 9 to 12 per cent per annum, according to local conditions. With the above modifications in the constitution of unlimited liability societies and with the internal safeguards in their actual working I am hopeful that the fear of our village folk for this form of liability will soon wear off. Next, as regards the Building Society, it was to meet a special want which has arisen in our growing towns in these days of new sanitary ideas that a Building Society at Bangalore was started. From an investigation of the statistics, collected from the registers in the Bangalore Sub-Registrar's Office, the total mortgage-indebtedness on the houses in all the extensions of the Bangalore City, from 1893-94, when the first extension, viz., Chamrajapet, was opened, up to the end of 1907-08, was found to be nearly ten lakhs of rupees, of which a little more than six lakhs had been advanced by Government without interest. The remaining four lakhs came from private lenders and though it is not possible to say accurately how much of this debt has been discharged, there is no doubt, from what the figures relating to hypothecation of houses in recent years indicate, that a large portion of it is still outstanding. A large number of houses in the extensions remains unfinished or without the needed improvements up to date. In several cases the building of a house, it is believed, has proved disastrous, hopelessly involving the owner in debt. For affording relief and help in such cases as well as to enable people to build good houses or improve them, without fear of ultimately losing them, a Building Society was organized and the work done by the society so far is encouraging. In European countries a large number of such Societies exist and they have been the chief agencies by which members have acquired good houses in the course of some years, and I do not see why, in course of time, blocks of houses, built with the help of funds advanced by Co-operative Building Societies should not come into existence in all congested places, at present solely looking to Government for help, affording substantial proof of the beneficial results of the Co-operative movement as a whole. I may add that at the last Conference of the Registrars of Co-operative Credit Societies, held at Calcutta in November 1909, I assured myself that a Building Society on the lines of the one started at Bangalore was a Co-operative Society to which the provisions of the Co-operative Act applied.

5. The following statement shows the general progress in the working of all the societies under different heads, as compared with that of the previous year:—

	No. of societies	No. of members	Working capital	Total disbursements	Reserve Fund
			Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1905-06	5	362	14,243	10,581	...
1906-07	15	1,191	28,085	78,216	167
1907-08	27	2,521	64,126	2,43,477	924
1908-09	45	4,551	1,35,499	4 81,768	2,340
1909-10	70	6,301	2,16,261	6,68,261	5,831

6. All the 70 societies are now in different stages of growth. Those that came into existence in the beginning have now gathered sufficient strength and vitality. I am glad to report that the first Society registered under the Co-operative Regulation, the Bangalore City Co-operative Society, is still the first in point of progress. The paid-up share capital at the close of the year was Rs. 20,325 while the deposits attracted during the year amounted to Rs. 22,368. Cash loans amounting to Rs. 71,098 were issued and stock of the value of Rs. 20,288 was sold. The society introduced certain additional features also into the system of its working. The issue of cheque books to depositors has proved a great convenience and it has encouraged the members to deposit their earnings however small, in the society, as thereby they can easily operate on such deposits at call, by means of cheques. The inception of the "Provident Fund Scheme" by which every member who takes a bond contracts to pay at the rate of Re. 1 a month on each bond for seven years at the end of which he becomes eligible to receive Rs. 100 from the society, is a further development of the society's business on Co-operative lines. The members have taken very kindly to the scheme and at present the receipts of the society under this head amount to about Rs. 500 a month. Mr. P. Subba Rao continued to be the Honorary Secretary of this society during the year and as a mark of recognition of his excellent services to the society an invitation was issued to him to the Palace during His Highness the Yuvaraja's marriage in June last. A small reading room and library is also attached to the society for the benefit of the members.

7. The Bangalore City Co-operative Bank showed equally good progress with its paid-up capital of Rs 28,430 and deposits of Rs. 15,024 which it attracted during the year. It is developing much on its old lines and though the Directors have not so far been taking kindly to my advice to strengthen the Reserve Fund and do away with the direction charges in view of making the Bank a true Co-operative institution, I am hopeful that the members of the Bank will ere long bring about this desirable change.

8. The Basavangudi and Malleswaram Societies which take their names from the two important extensions of Bangalore City are mainly distributive stores with small cash departments attached to them. The former continued its activity in its original area and with my permission extended its operations to the fast developing Sankara Matt Extension adjoining it. The latter society, which is still in its infancy, is showing signs of development.

9. The Bangalore City Building Co-operative Society, the objects of which have been explained in a previous paragraph, commenced its work in the middle of March 1910 and issued 9 loans of the aggregate value of Rs. 4,350 during the year and recovered Rs. 203 on account of principal during the same period.

10. Out of the remaining five societies outside the Bangalore City those at Kengeri and Hudi have just commenced work and those at Yelahanka and Gottigere have shown fairly good progress. To the latter society I have recently granted a loan of Rs. 250 from the State Funds to augment its working capital. In the case of the village societies in the Bangalore Taluk, Mr. A. Hayes, Amildar, has been greatly helping them in various ways and my thanks are due to him. The society at Channapatna, which is mainly an Industrial Society, has paid back the deposit of Rs. 100 which I gave it last year from the funds that His Highness has so magnanimously placed at my disposal. The society found sales for lacquered articles of the value of Rs. 1,149-10-4 and during the year under report the cash branch was separated from the factory branch to avoid confusion in the accounts.

11. Tumkur District.—The number of societies in this district rose from 9 to 20, though some of the societies started at the close of the year had not yet commenced to work. The Tumkur Central Co-operative Society continued to do business in banking and its paid-up shares amounted at the close of the year to Rs. 11,071. Mr. C. D. Ramaswamiah its first Secretary, ceased to guide it, his place being taken by Mr. R. Shama Rao, retired Amildar. Closely following this society in the path of progress is the society at Sira whose share capital rose during the year from Rs. 5,095 to Rs. 8,168. The society at Turuvekere borrowed during the year Rs. 1,500 from the Central Bank. The new societies at Tiptur and Koratagere are in the management of intelligent men and have already shown good progress both in the number of members and in the volume of business done. At Pavagada the Amildar Mr. S. Reuben is greatly assisting the society. The grain bank at Kotta has now a reserve grain of 19 pallas and 23 seers.

12. Mysore District.—In the district of Mysore there are now 20 societies of which 5 are new. Two of the latter did not commence work before the close of the year. Of the first society in the district, viz., the Mysore Co-operative Society, it may be said that as before, its progress continued satisfactory. It has not been as regular in its meetings as could be wished, and it is hoped that it will show improvement next year. The productive Weaver Society at Melkote and the Lakshmi Sahaya Nidhi at Mysore did commendably well. The Weaver Society at Saligrama, though in a moribund condition, is still persevering in its work with the help of advances made by one of its members. I fear, however, that this society has no future. The society at T.-Narsipur, which began under good auspices, and hoped to do a good deal for the silk reeling industry of Mysore, had had to close business in that department by reason of its inability to produce silk of the quality in demand in the outside markets. The working has resulted in a loss but the society is now trying other means of making it good. The Mysore Sri Krishnaraja Krishi Silpabhi Vardhaka Samaja placed its working on sounder lines. A fresh Committee of management was elected in February 1910 with Mr. M. Kantaraj Urs as President, and with different secretaries for the agricultural and the industrial branches of the association. The societies at Kadakola and Hinkal (in the Mysore Taluk) and at Kuderu (in the Chamrajnagar Taluk) did fairly good work.

13. Of the remaining districts, Kolar and Hassan have three societies each, Shimoga two, Kadur and Chitaldrug five each. The society in the town of Kolar is in intelligent hands and promises well. In the Hassan District the societies at Hassan and Hole-Narsipur did not show any marked vitality. The societies in the districts of Shimoga and Kadur need no remark. The Zahir-ul-Islam Weaver Co-operative Society at Molakalmuru in the Chitaldrug District, encountered some trouble with one of its Hindu members, between whom and the Secretary of the society there was some ill-will. The Inspector of Co-operative Societies visited the place and after overhauling the affairs of the society brought about peace between the members. The rural society at Molakalmuru progressed steadily under the guidance of Mr. Venkata Rao and other members of the Committee.

14. Of the remaining societies in the Chitaldrug District, the society at Harihar is ceasing to work on co-operative lines. The society deals mainly with the weavers of the place who are not members, in yarn and other raw materials, and there is a heavy outstanding balance against them. Unless the balances are recovered and the working method is improved, the registration of the society will have to be cancelled.

15. Members.—The year under report shows an increase in the total number of members from 4,551 in the beginning to 6,301 at the close, the admissions and the cessations being 2,169 and 338 respectively. With regard to the members, if there is any one idea more prominent than the rest, it is that the stability of a society is proportionate to the moral worth of its members. I am glad to note that the managing bodies of societies have learnt to respect this idea, so much so, that in the Bangalore City Co-operative Society and a few other societies, instances have occurred in which defaulters have pressed payment of their dues, reformed and subsequently turned out correct members, under a feeling that removal from membership of the society was a stain on their character not to be easily wiped off.

16. Capital.—As usual, the sources of capital were shares, deposits and borrowings. The Bangalore Central Co-operative Bank, which on account of the drought which prevailed last year was unable to commence operations, began, in the latter half of the year under report, to issue loans. With this bank to finance rural societies, it has become easier to sanction the formation of such societies more largely than hitherto. The total share capital collected in all the societies increased during the year from Rs. 1,06,131 to Rs. 1,58,698 and the working capital, including deposits and borrowings from Rs. 1,35,499 to Rs. 2,16,261.

17. Deposits.—There was an improvement in the deposits attracted in all the societies. The deposits received during the year amounted to Rs. 69,131 against Rs. 34,220 of last year, excluding the Provident Fund collection of Rs. 1,008 in the Bangalore City Co-operative Society, deposits to the extent of Rs. 47,104 were returned, leaving an outstanding balance of Rs. 40,302 at the close of the year, including the opening balance. The older societies are advancing in the confidence of their members and are attracting fairly large deposits. Naturally the same cannot be said to rural societies where the managing bodies themselves stand in need of constant instruction and supervision. The growth of confidence in such societies is slow, but it is remarkable that when once the raiyat is assured that the society established in his village ensures safety for his money and that it uses it for lending to men who are known to him, without the money going out of the village, he readily comes forward with his savings to deposit them in the society.

18. The subjoined table gives the borrowings of the societies from the different sources indicated :—

Name of source	Name of the borrowing society	Amount advanced	Repayment	Balance	Due date
		Rs.	Rs. a. p.	Rs. a. p.
1. H.H. the Maharaja's Fund ...	1. Kotta Grain Bank	150	...	150	21st August 1909. Renewed.
	2. Hinkal Nanneswara Sahaya Sangha.	500	...	500	19th November 1909 Renewed to 19th November 1910.
2. Centra Bank	1. Turuvekere Co-operative Society	1,500	...	1,500	June 1911.
	2. Bangalore City Building Society..	5,000	...	5,000	3,000—January 1913. 2,000—June 1912.
3. Government (State Fund) ...	1. Hebbur Co-operative Society ...	250	..	250	November 1910.
	2. Molakalmuru Krishikara Sahaya Sangha.	200	133 5 4	66 10 8	May 1911.
	3. Halgonahalli Co-operative Society.	200	...	200	November 1910.

It is seen from the above that only 7 societies have borrowed till now and the borrowed debt of the societies at the close of the year formed a low percentage of ·03 to the capital formed of shares and deposits, in the aggregate, as compared with the percentage of the whole of India which is ·14. It may, however, be stated that for want of a central place to borrow the amount under this head appears so low. The societies are clamorous for loans and hereafter with the Central Bank working larger figures may be expected to appear under this head. The societies as a whole have not yet tapped the local capital to the extent they ought to ; it takes time for them to do it, and when unions have been formed, I think, a systematic organized means will have come into existence for such tapping.

19. Loans to members.—The amount of loans advanced during the year by all the societies to their members was Rs. 3,53,781 as against Rs. 2,28,027 of the year previous. The outstandings at the end of the year amounted to Rs. 1,38,565, the repayments being Rs. 2,94,325 as against Rs. 1,82,310 of the previous year. The societies on the whole are keeping up their reputation for minimum number of defaults. The purposes for which the loans are advanced in the societies are chiefly agricultural in the rural parts, such as purchase of seed, manure or cattle or redeeming land from prior encumbrances, or payment of kandayam ; in weaver societies for the purchase of raw material or industrial appliances, and in the purely urban societies of Bangalore and Mysore, for the purchase of food stuffs or household requirements. The information to hand on this point is, however, meagre, though efforts are being made year after year to collect accurate information on the purposes of every loan, as it is very important to do so from a co-operative point of view. The occasions on which rural members borrowed for what are called specifically non-productive purposes such as marriage and other ceremonies seem few and far between. As regards security, most of the loans continue to be secured yet on the paid-up share value, and where this does not cover the loan applied for a joint surety is demanded. In rural areas the immovable property of the borrowing member is freely offered as security but the character of the borrower is gradually entering into consideration in the disposal of the loan applications—a very hopeful sign for the spread and stability of co-operation whose mission is to secure reasonably cheap and facile credit for all really useful purposes. The following table indicates the loans issued on different securities :—

Rs.	1,11,914	11	5	... Secured on share value.
Rs.	21,845	2	3	... Secured on joint and several responsibility of the borrower and surety.
Rs.	23,493	0	0	... Secured on immovable property.
Rs.	8,544	11	3	... Secured on movable property.
Rs.	86,568	1	7	... Secured on the simple bond of the borrower.

20. Rates of interest.—It is too early to make systematic enquiries as to the effect of co-operative credit on the moneylender. It may, however, be safely said that wherever co-operative societies have taken firm root, the hands of the moneylender have invariably been crippled. He has lost certainly in the clientele and has in certain places climbed down. This is especially so in the cities of Bangalore, Mysore and Tumkur. In other places too, where the "Labbe" has been long having his unconscionable trade in charging one pie per rupee per day, or more in proportion to the exigencies of the borrower. Co-operative societies have been of use in driving the "Labbe" out of the field. A recent instance of this occurred at Koratagere. The "Labbe" and his kind are still having it in their own way in some of the interior places where the movement has not made its appearance. The movement with us on the whole augurs well for the raiyat, as he has already learnt to petition to the Registrar against the usurious rates locally obtaining and against the time-honored system of borrowing on "Phala Suttige" according to which system the raiyat borrows for short periods of three or four months on the condition of repaying the interest in kind at one "Ibbala"(ಇಬ್ಬಳ), i.e., 4½ kolagas for every rupee advanced. The system of "Phala Suttige" often results in the borrower giving away all his produce to the lender without being able to retain anything for his own use; and the co-operative soci ties in rural parts have commenced to check this pernicious system. The rates of interest generally charged by societies on loans to members have continued to range from 9 to 12½ per cent, the rates of the Central Bank excepted. The latter vary from 6 to 7½ per cent in case of loans to societies and from 8 to 9 per cent in the case of loans to members.

21. Custody of funds.—Public accounts have been opened in the Postal Savings Banks by nine societies, in the names of the secretaries or treasurers in whose custody the daily balances have remained. The Managing Committees or Panchayets as the case may be have from time to time scrutinized the balances. The reserve funds are at present deposited in the Savings Banks (Postal or Government) as fixed deposits. The daily balances of each society have not been unnecessarily excessive. The secretaries know full well that it is bad economy to have money on hand lying idle.

22. Receipts and disbursements.—The total transactions from all the societies show a marked progress over those of the previous year. The receipts and the disbursements during the year were Rs. 6,92,926 and Rs. 6,68,261, respectively, against Rs. 4,88,047 and Rs. 4,81,768 of last year. The total volume of business thus shows an increase in receipts of Rs. 2,04,879 and in disbursements of Rs. 1,86,493 over those of the year previous, the increase being most noticeable in the older societies. The subjoined table shows the volume of business done by the distributive and productive societies:—

Names of societies	Value of stock bought		Value of stock sold
	1908-09	1909-10	1908-09	1909-10
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1. Melkote Weaver Co-operative Society ...	29,589	23,287	27,476	24,953
2. Mysore Lakshmi Sahaya Nidhi Co-operative Society.	28,834	28,583	26,348	31,659
3. Mysore Co-operative Society	16,802	14,259	17,605	20,637
4. Bangalore City Co-operative Society ..	16,272	22,915	17,497	20,228
5. Basavangudi Co-operative Society	15,900	9,737	16,207	10,647
6. Malleswaram Co-operative Society	...	2,160	...	1,261
7. Kolar Co-operative Society	1,798	12,236	776	11,201
8. Molakalmuru Zahir-ul-Islam Co-operative Society.	5,856	7,385	6,097	7,586

23. Profit and loss.—The year's transaction resulted in a net profit of Rs 10,874 to the societies. Here and there a desire to distribute large dividends on shares still lingers, but on the whole the societies are better educated on the point this year than they were in the past. The necessity for a limit on the distribution to members of profits is more generally recognised and the societies are advised to add a larger portion of the profits to the reserve fund.

24. Reserve fund.—The total amount accumulated under the reserve is from the beginning Rs. 5,831-1-1 made up as follows :—

	Rs.	a.	p.
1905-06	131	10	8
1906-07	160	5	11
1907-08	924	15	6
1908-09	2,340	10	10
1909-10	5,831	1	1

The society that has built up the largest reserve is the Mysore Co-operative Society, the second and third places being taken up by the Bangalore City Co-operative Society and the Melkote Weaver Co-operative Society respectively, with Rs. 1,652, 1,209 and 605-12-0 respectively. The object of the fund is now fully understood. In some rural places the raiyats seemed to entertain the notion that the benign Government which was doing them so much for their good was not without an ulterior selfish motive, and that the reserve fund which its officers were advising to accumulate was finally to go to Government. Every opportunity has been availed of to disabuse them of this wrong notion and they have been assured that every pie of the reserve is their own, set apart, however, to give stability to the society to which it belongs.

25. Audit and inspection.—Twenty-seven societies were inspected during the year. The work being more than what one Inspector and myself could manage, I had to indent upon the help of the two Honorary Organizers, Messrs. C. D. Ramaswamiah and T. Venkataramiah, to whom I am deeply indebted for the ready manner in which they co-operated. From the beginning of the present official year, the Government have been pleased to strengthen my hands by the appointment of a Deputy Amildar, an additional Inspector and a clerk, for which I am highly thankful. As I have more than once brought to the notice of Government, unless the Registrar's inspecting establishment is increased from time to time as the number of societies and the volume of business increase, the movement, now admitted on all hands to be so beneficial to the rural population as well as to handicraftsmen and men of moderate means, must come to a stop. The societies will in course of time be able to pay for their own audit and inspection, but till that time comes I do not think that the Government can hold back, unless it means to allow the movement to take its own course.

26. Honorary organizers.—To the ranks of these zealous and devoted workers of whom, after Mr. M. S. Narayana Rao resigned, Mr. C. D. Ramaswamiah alone remained, the names of Mr. T. Venkataramiah, retired Amildar, and Mr. Badami Krishna Rao, retired Assistant Commissioner, were added during the year. I regret that Mr. C. D. Ramaswamiah, to whom we owe so many as twenty societies in the Tumkur District, has had to resign recently in consequence of ill-health. The other co-worker I am proud to associate myself with is Mr. T. Venkataramiah, retired Amildar, who is working at present in the Bangalore District. Mr. Badami Krishna Rao's appointment was made in the latter part of the year under report and he has already begun to show good work.

27. Committee and general meetings.—There were 77 general and 377 committee meetings during the year under report. The committee meetings were on the whole regular, but not so the general. In the case of all societies I am insisting that they should hold their general meetings regularly as per bye-laws.

28. Acts, Rules and Regulations.—As mentioned in my last year's report the modifications needed in the Co-operative Regulation, III of 1905, have to wait till the Government of India Act is amended which, it is expected, will be done when the Government of India next returns to Calcutta.

29. During the year under report, there was a departmental compilation of a Co-operative Manual in Kannada by Mr. E. Rama Rao, Special Duty Amildar, which is still in print.

30. Attitude of the public, difficulties, etc.—Co-operative societies in general have attracted a great deal of notice both in the English papers largely circulating in the State and also in the vernacular press of the country. In our district towns the Government officials are the first to join the movement and in the large cities of Bangalore and Mysore there are very few officials who are not members of one society or another. The movement is gradually becoming more and more known in the interior and several people have come to me from distant villages in remote taluks to enquire if co-operative societies can be given to them. I have been chary of granting societies in places where the general intelligence of the people is low or the local conditions of the places do not promise success. Last year some of the pending applications could not be attended to for want of sufficient establishment, but this year we are better situated and the applications are receiving prompt attention. While the educated people are appreciating the manifold benefits of the scheme, the Sahukars in the towns and the smaller moneylenders in villages assume a somewhat hostile attitude to the movement and their opposition, though at present neither organized nor direct, may, I think, be expected to grow in intensity in future years and we have to prepare ourselves to combat it efficaciously. The raiyats in whatever part of the Province, and whether they fully understand the scope of the movement or not, wish to have societies for themselves for the single purpose of saving themselves from usury, if for nothing else. I have been explaining to all people that the object of a co-operative society is neither the abolition of the sowcar of higher principles who may be called a banker in its best sense, nor the provision of cheap credit to a bankrupt raiyat. The movement being a purely economic one, there is place in it both for the wealthy sowcar and for the honest humble raiyat. I am glad to note that during the year under report our city societies have enlisted several sowcars and merchants among their members. Before closing this section of my report I wish to mention yet another kind of difficulty which presents itself constantly in my work. There are a large class of people who lay claim to education, that start with the exaggerated notion that a co-operative society is a panacea for all social evils. When the results of the working of our societies fall short of their expectations they feel disappointed and cry aloud that co-operative societies are no good to the country. While the main difficulty in rural tracts is the choice of a fit place with sufficient number of intelligent men to work a society, in the case of the societies in towns my attention is taken up in seeing that their working does not slide into joint stock or speculative methods. Time alone an set right these wrong ideas, but signs however are not wanting which show that the movement has passed out of this stage of unreasonable expectations, hasty generalizations and consequent disappointments into one of sober appreciation of its scope and methods.

31. In conclusion, it now only remains for me to thank all the gentlemen mentioned in my previous reports, for the continued interest they have evinced in popularizing the credit societies. In the year under report, Messrs. H. Ramiah, pensioned Assistant Secretary to Government, T. Lakshminarasimha Rao, B.A., B. L., Assistant Secretary to Government, and C. Rama Rao, retired Assistant Commissioner, came forward with their help and I am specially thankful to them as to all the others, whose help has sustained me in my work, a work the importance of which has yet to be realized by the general public and which consequently has to be done under circumstances which at times cause despair in the minds of those whose good fortune or ill-fortune it is to be engaged in that work.

32. As usual, my office establishment did good work and the gradation in their pay recently sanctioned by Government should go far to sustain them in keeping up their good name for the future also.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

M. SHAMA RAO,

Registrar.
